Foreword

With the coming of autumn, schools across the nation open their doors to the youth of America. During the summer, these educational establishments have been allowed to remain calm and serene. But with the ringing of the bell to start classes the first day, the atmosphere completely changes. For nine months the school becomes the core of the student's life.

Using the four symbols of the National Honor Society, the staff presents the 1963 NEVAMO. Activities of the school year are built around the qualities of service, leadership, character, and scholarship. These qualities are stressed during the academic year as students develop. Through the guidance of the faculty and administration, each student of Nevada High School is given the opportunity to grow mentally and physically into a better rounded citizen.

The year begins with a feeling of excitement and anticipation. All of us look forward to new experiences and the fun connected with the society of fellow students. However, as the doors close on that final day, an empty feeling steals over the members of the student body, especially the seniors. There is a realization of the importance of high school and of the four qualities stressed by instructors. Because of this realization and the training in leadership, character, service, and scholarship, the student body of Nevada High School hopes to be able to assume the responsibility of becoming adult members of tomorrow's world.

On Halloween evening the students of Nevada High School enjoy annual Anti-Van party sponsored by the Junior and Senior High Student Councils.

Worthwhile Projects Serve Student

During the Christmas season the joy of giving is demonstrated by the presentation of gifts to the Solvation Army by the Student Body.

Practice and hard work are necessary for the success of the Anti-Van Follies.

Body And Community

In today's modern world, teeming with activity, every individual is given the opportunity to serve an organization or group. This is true, also, at Nevada High School. Through various activities such as Homecoming, Anti-Van, and White Christmas, the student body works for the advancement of our high school. Serving an organization may present unfavorable situations as well as favorable ones. Included among these drawbacks are hard work, anxiety, and disappointments. These detriments fade from our minds as we hear our school praised by the community for its achievements. A student's life is enriched by this participation in organizational activities.

This year's benefit basketball game between the Lobsters and Roadrunners drew a contribution of $253.91. This money is distributed among the March of Dimes, American Cancer Society, Crippled Children's Fund, and the Heart Foundation.

Today's Guidance Formulates

Before the National Honor Society's installation several practice rehearsals are held. The right music, the right step, and the lighted candle make this ceremony impressive.

As each new day dawns on America, the need for leaders increases. With the world in such a constant turmoil, we need people capable of guiding us along the right path. When yet only small children, we learn the importance of those who lead and those who follow. Upon reaching high school, we begin to accept responsibilities and work together until a job is satisfactorily completed. Membership in the majority of high school clubs is voluntary. To belong, one needs to show a desire to better himself as well as the organization. This opportunity to participate gives each student a chance to develop leadership qualities. This training is a determining factor in the progress of our nation.

"Hold high the torch. You did not light its glow . . ."

Tomorrow's Leaders

When basketball season arrives, the popcarn machine hums with activity between halves and games. The stand is operated by members of Senior High Student Council.

Serving at state president of Future Teachers of America for 1963 is Connie Johnson, a sophamore at Nevada High School

In answer to the demand for physical fitness, the girls' physical education classes participate in varied activities, including hockey.

Personality Development Depends Upon

Through the guidance of coaches and teachers, the Nevada High School student body learns that the final score isn't the most important item of a game.

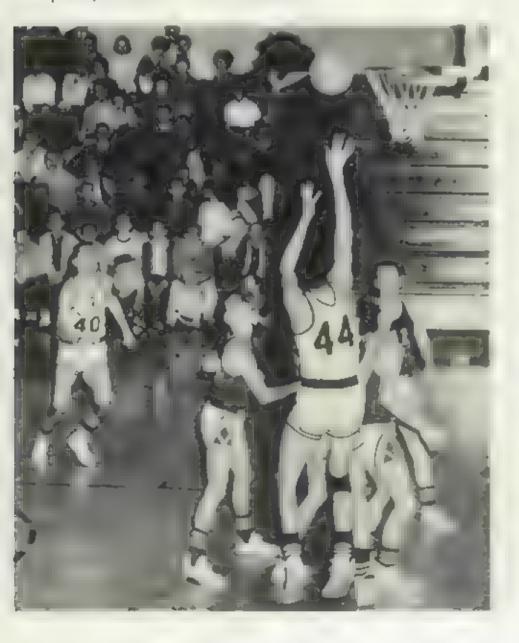

According to the dictionary the word character means one's pattern of behavior or personality. From our earliest family relations, we begin to develop as an individual person. Such traits as loyalty, honesty, kindness, and respect for authority are instilled in us by our families. Upon reaching adolescence we are confronted with many seemingly large problems. Being placed among people with differing personalities causes us to question our own make-up and beliefs. At times we feel that nabody understands us. But, through the guidance of the faculty and administration we learn to uphold high moral standards. Extra-curricular activities such as football, basketball, and track help the student realize the satisfaction that comes from a job well done.

Physical As Well As Mental Growth

Playing basketball gives the student an opportunity to portray his school to the community.

Organized this year to promote sportsmanship, the "N" dub boosts a large membership.

Last, but by no means least, is the quality of scholar-ship. From 8:45 to 3:18, excluding the lunch period, a student is given classroom instruction. With the latest in textbooks and teaching methods, a student at Nevada High School has every opportunity to become a well-educated person. As with other aspects of life, the student must be willing to sacrifice time and effort in order to advance. Using various testing programs, the capacities of a student are revealed to him. With these ideas in mind, each student schedules those classes which will be of most benefit to him. This knowledge gained in high school will prove to be a valuable asset in meeting the challenge of tomorrow's world.

Using the library becomes a necessity to those students who are enrolled in debate class.

Guidance, And Initiative

Bulletins, prepared by the office staff, are essential to the smooth functioning of the school

Skills of a practical nature are developed in shop class.

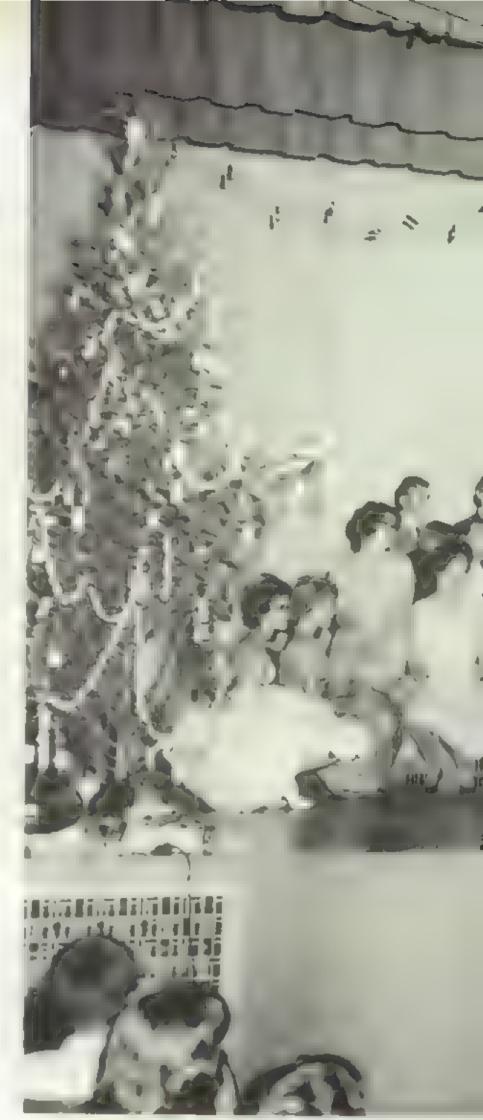

Testing programs for Nevada High School students are complete.

"... Be willing to help others; be strong in anything you undertake; and see the job through."

Service is defined by Webster as the "performance of labor for the benefit of another." However, unselfish service always reaps the reward of self-satisfaction and accomplishment. And the greater degree of service one renders, the greater degree of personal satisfaction one receives.

World affairs today make the significance of service even more apparent. Through many activities at Nevada High School the students work to promote the school to the public. Activities such as the faculty basketball game for the March of Dimes and the White Christmas program are only two of the many worth-while projects undertaken by the students. These activities enable the students to help others while, at the same time, they are enriching their own lives. Also important in the composition of service are the common everyday courtesies of today which develop into the major services of tomorrow.

Learning to serve is truly one of the most important composites in building one's character.

Service

Nevamo King

Lynn Whitworth

Senior

Popular and talented are adjectives that would barely begin a description of Lynn Whitworth, 1963 Nevamo King. Lynn's career at Nevada High School is marked with success. His senior year found him serving as Vice-President of the Student Body, an officer in the "N" Club, DeBarr Club, and attending Boys' State. Lynn is a member of the National Honor Society and the Nevamo staff. Other than these elected duties, he is an outstanding athlete, having lettered in football, basketball, and track.

Lynn's future plans include attending college with a career planned either in commercial art or business administration.

Nevamo Queen

Carol Wallace

Senior

Reserved beauty is an apt phrase to describe Carol Wallace, 1963 Nevamo Queen. During her years at Nevada High School, Carol has been an agreeable and pleasant friend to all students. Carol held a leading role in the Junior Class Play, "Life With Father", by partraying the character of Mrs. Clarence Day. She, also, is an active member of Tigerettes, Future Teachers of America, and Co-operative Education Club.

Future plans include attending Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Missouri. Carol then plans to enter nurse's training and anticipates a career in nursing.

NEVAMO QUEEN CANDIDATES . . . Suzanne Armitage, Sharon Dodson, and Judy Tough relax before school begins. After being chasen by the Senior class, these candidates are then voted on by the senior high school students.

STRING HIM UP is the yell of football players and students as they watch Co-captains Jery Nunn and Lynn Whitwarth hang the Lamar dummy in effigy at the Silver Tiger raily. Hanging a dummy has been a pre-game tradition at both Nevada and Lamar for many years.

Silver Tiger Leaves N.H.S.

KEEP THE TIGER . . . plead majorettes and students. The rally marks the beginning of the game which dates back to 1936 when the Silver Tiger was presented to the student councils of Nevada and Lamar by the Lions Clubs of both towns.

AFTER A HARD FOUGHT GAME players and students alike enjoy a quiet Silver Tiger Dance. This marks the end of the Silver Tiger festivities. This year's game saw Nevada lose the game and the Tiger on a rain-drenched field by a score of 44-7. This marked the end of a three year stay at Nevada High School for the Silver Tiger

BEAT LAMAR . . . is the chant of the cheer-leaders as they lead the student body to Logan Field for the rally. The rally began in the downtown area of Nevada and the students marched around the square and then out to Logan Field. This is just one example of the great spirit and good participation by students this fall at football games

Homecoming Queen

Donna Pascoe

On November 19, Miss Donna Pascoe, a junior, was crowned 1962 Homecoming Queen to reign over the Homecoming game and dance.

Queen Donna participates in both school and extra-curricular activities. She is an active member of Tigerettes, belongs to Future Teachers, and is a feature writer for the Crimson and Gray. Besides these activities she has belonged to Student Council and Future Homemakers.

Donna has many interests outside of school, Included in these is her favorite hobby, horseback riding. Her horse Taffy, a golden palamina quarter-horse, has won many awards in the categories of pleasure-riding and horse-manship. Donna and Taffy also took part in the 1962 American Royal Parade.

Her future plans include majoring in English in college and going on to teaching or being a medical secretary.

WHO WILL TAKE THE HONORS . . . is the big question asked as the queen candidates for Homecoming admire the crown presented to our school for this occasion by Rinehart's Jewelry Store. From Left to Right — the candidates are Mary Jo Lasley, Donna Pascoe, and Sharon Dodson.

UP IN FLAMES goes the Neosho dummy, signifying what was to happen to their team the next night. This event is a highlight of every Hamecoming Rally

IF YOU ARE CHOSEN . . . says Mrs. Keithly, as a hopeful Donna Pascoe along with Lynn Whitworth, her escort, and Linda Charles, head cheerleader, receive their instructions. A successful Homecoming, before and after, was the result of just such practicing and organizing by many people.

Much Planning

THE QUESTION IS . . . Are you ready? After the Homecoming Rally the Senior High Band prepares to practice for their routine to be done during the pre-game activities of Homecoming the next night. They formed a '1962' on the field and played "A Pretty Girl" as the Queen was crowned.

BEAUTY REIGNED . . . over the 1962 Homecoming activities. Donna Pascon was crowned by her escort, Lynn Whitworth, and her attendants were Mary Jo Lasley escorted by Denny Jodlot, and Sharon Dodson escorted by Butch Fry.

Goes Into 1962 Homecoming

ALUMNI GATHERING... for the Homecoming festivities are Donna Payne, Roger Marquardt, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Rimmer, Linda Haynes, Dick Lay, Bill Brown, and Linda Shoemaker. After the game all the alumni who were back had a chance to reminisce over their past school days and their new experiences at college

HOME AWAY FROM HOME... Linda Pursley, Fred Fowler, Stan Jones, and Carolyn Erickson enjoy Figer Town, the newly acquired meeting spot for Nevada High School students. All Juniar and Senior High students are automatically citizens of Tiger Town. This facility is open to all students each Tuesday and Thursday evening.

Tiger Town Opening

Mr. B. L. Nicodemus and Mayor Ben Mendenhall present the Tiger Town keys to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jadlot. Mr. and Mrs. Jadlot were selected managers of Tiger Town by the Youth Club Board. They have done an excellent job serving in this capacity and have contributed greatly to the enjoyment Tiger Town offords.

WHERE'S THE MUSIC . Inquire the students on opening night at Tiger Town. Opening night officially marked the establishment of Tiger Town in its new location on North Main Street. Tiger Town, once located on Highway 54, changed locations this fall. In its new home, Tiger Town offers a much larger and better-arranged building which is the pride of the youth-leaders of Nevada as well as the students.

FOR OUR NEXT NUMBER . . . begins Judy Bell as she introduces each number of the Follies Judy presided as Mistress of Ceremonies of the 1962 Anti-Van Follies. This year marked the sixteenth annual Anti-Van Party. This party was originated in an effort to combat vandalism on Hallaween night. For these past years vandalism has been unknown to the city of Nevada All students attend this party, and they are well-entertained from early evening until mid night

THUMBELINA, THUMBELINA . . . Warren Moseley may not be a dainty little thing, but he displays utmost grace as he performs his ballet with the aid of Terry M ler

Variety Adds Fun To Follies

HERE SHE COMES . . . Choosing the Miss America from these beautiful queens in their flowing dresses and latest hair styles could be quite a problem. The finalists, being judged on their beauty, poise, and intelligence, are Dorenda (David Barton), Leona (Leo Janes), Donna (Don Brown), Edwinna (Edwin Fletchall), Tiawana (Terry Jadiot), and Charlena (Butch Fry). Judging presented a huge and perplexing question, but finally a decision was reached to the disappointment of all the losing contestants.

One Hundred Fifty Perform In Follies

1946 was the year which witnessed the origin of the Anti-Van follies. Then, it was not called the follies, but was simply a talent show which was presented by those who won the try-outs. As the Anti-Van has grown to be an important event of the school year, the talent show has become a highlight of the evening. It has gradually become the responsibility of the speech and music departments and is now known by the name of Anti-Van Follies. Besides solos, group singing, and dancing, the Follies are enlarged both in quantity and quality by humorous skits. Follies usually include one hundred to two hundred students in participation, and they provide an hour and a half of fun. This section has become a very popular part of the Anti-Van and provides the most all-inclusive section of this party.

"WELL, I'LL LEAVE EARLY TO MAKE UP FOR IT"... pipes Mary Jo Lusley (Mrs. Chapman) after she had arrived late to school. In this skit the teachers of Nevada High School were impersonated by students. It showed how well behaved and angelic teachers really were when they went to school. This hilarious skit was written by Mr. Rogers and was well-received by the audience

THE FRANTIC FIVE . . . Colin Fairchild, Jim Brown, Kathy Pauling, Kay McLaughlin, and Anne Pearse perform their skit for the enjoyment of all at the Uncle-Van party

Anti-Van Party Provides Enjoyment

SOFT AND SWEET . . . That's the beat of the music as these Junior High couples take a turn around the floor. The gym is divided for this dance, and the Junior High section of the dance floor is decorated by members of the Sweater Club

SWINGIN' SOUNDS . . . of the Eddie Barnes Bond provide the music for a fun-filled evening of dancing. For those who enjoyed dancing, the band played from nine until twelve. Midnight saw the close of a "packed-with-fun party"

An Evening To Be Remembered

CAFETERIA CROWD... Throughout the evening, students drifted in and out of the cafeteria where food prepared by the P.T.A. quickly disappeared. Hundreds of sandwiches, dozens of cookies, and cases of colo were consumed by the active party-goers.

Juniors Present "The Matchmaker"

"IT'S A FIGHT!" . . . August (Eddie Wode) watches dazedly as Malachi (Jim McCann), Mrs. Molloy (Judy Bell), Rudolph (Clint Kraft), and Cornelius (Lynn Brown) struggle over the screen. Minnie (Cyndy Allen) and Barnaby (Wayne Jackson) observe their actions with interest

"The Matchmaker", under the direction of Mr. Gordon Rogers, was presented by the Junior Class on December 6, 7, and 8. This threeact comedy by Thornton Wilder takes place in the summer of the 1880's. The action centers around a scheming lady who pretends to be trying to find a wife for a miserly man, but is actually trying to ensnare him for herself. The cast of characters not pictured include: Gertrude (Nancy Quarton), the Cook (Janet Phelps), the Cabman (Ronnie Hubbard), and Scanlon (Jim Curry).

NO, HORACE, I DON'T DARE! . . . exclaims Mrs. Levi (Pat Koehler) to Mr. Vandergelder (Jim Rasmussen) while pretending to be surprised at his proposal of marriage.

I'LL PUT A STOP TO THIS . . . vows Miss Van Huysen (Sheryl Bryant) to Ambrose (Dick Lawrence) while trying to console Ermengarde (Janet Atkinson).

"AND OUT I JUMPED!" . . . exclaims Mr. Wilson (Butch Fry) as he practices his lines at play rehearsal. He is demonstrating to Dr. Sanders (Jery Nunn), Dr. Chumley (Warren Moseley), and Miss Kelly (Linda Charles) how he captured Mrs. Simmons.

Under the direction of Mr. Gordon Rogers, the Senior Class presented Mary Chase's "Harvey" on March 7, 8, and 9. Taking place in the mid-1900's, the play concerns Elwood P. Dowd and his invisible white rabbit, Harvey. The fact that he has an invisible friend upsets everyone except Mr. Dowd. Confusion sets in as Elwood's sister tries to enter him in the sanitarium and she winds up there instead. The story that unfolds about this mixed-up family proves to be a very entertaining and hilarious comedy.

"Harvey" Is Success For Seniors

"IT IS TO BE DONE LIKE THIS"... says Mr. Rogers, Director, as he explains to the cost same of the da's and dan'ts of acting. Listening intently are Mrs. Chauvenet (Loretta Lyon), Myrtle Simmons (Janet Gallagher), Veta Simmons (Barbara Shaver), Dr. Chumley (Warren Moseley), Elwood P. Dowd (David Barton), E. J. Lafgren (Tim Ephland). In the back row are Miss Kelly (Linda Charles) Dr. Sanders (Jery Nunn), Mr. Wilson (Butch Fry), Student Director Gary Knoblauch, and Miss Johnson (Carol Richmond). Not present for the pictures are Betty Chumley (Tobie Lawrence) and Judge Gaffney (Frank Tucker)

EXCITEMENT AND ENTHUSIASM . . . is displayed by the Juniors and Seniors as they arrive for an evening that will live forever in their memories.

Ballroom, Band, And Bowling Alley

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM . . . is revealed by the Junior Class President, Judy Tough, as the theme of the 1962 Prom. Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Jones, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bennett, Shirley Corpenter and Raymond Crawford, Judy Tough and John Ogle, Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Romboch, and Mr. and Mrs. Garland Keithly

Provide Entertainment For The Prom

INSTRUMENTAL MELODIES . . . Eddie Bornes, an alumnus of Nevada High School, and his band provide musical entertainment for the dance. The band is composed of students from Central Missouri-State Callege.

JUST FOR US . . . is the plea of Tim Ephland and Barbara Shaver as they ask band director Eddie Barnes to play their favorite tune.

"... growth, not only academically, but spiritually and socially as well, is the chief requisite in the formula of a leader."

Possessing the quality of leadership is being able to work and think with others in a co-operative effort with total accomplishment as the goal. Leadership is promoted at Nevada High School by numerous clubs representing many fields of interest. Membership and participation in the activities of these various clubs is voluntary for those interested students. The benefits received from belonging and participating in organized groups are many. Among these are learning to work harmoniously with others, gaining a sense of responsibility, developing one's initiative, and acquiring self-satisfaction. These qualities will be of even greater value in the future as today's generation of students become tomorrow's leaders.

Leadership

TALLYING ELECTION RETURNS... is one of the big jobs of the Senior High Student Council officers, Jery Nunn, Treasurer; Suzanne Armilage, Secretary; Miss Gladys Radford, Sponsor; Lynn Whitworth, Vice-President; and Edwin Fletchall, President

Some of the important goals of the Senior High Student Council are to promote leadership, scholarship, character, and student participation among the student body. The Anti-Van Party, which is to prevent vandalism on Halloween, is the council's biggest project. With the aid and encouragement of their sponsor, Miss Gladys Radford, this project has always been a big success. Other highlights for the council are the conventions and workshops that are held on the state and national level. These are attended by both council officers and members. The purpose of these workshops and conventions is to give council leaders new ideas in promoting leadership, citizenship, and good sportsmanship in the student body.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. W. R. Hamblin, Jr., the Junior High Student Council undertakes the representation of the seventh and eighth grade students. The Council meets weekly to discuss and suggest improvements for the betterment of the Junior High. The main moneymaking job of the Junior High Council is to sell the familiar red pencils advertising the Junior-Senior High School to the students of all grades. The Council also sponsors game rooms at Anti-Van and they work with the Senior High Council in various all-school activities.

PROOFREADING FOR ERRORS . . . keeps Jery Nunn, Editor; Mrs Marie Butner, Spansor; and Saundra Rasnic, Assistant Editor; busy every two weeks before publication.

Selling advertising, gathering school news covering all school activities, and delivering the finished papers, sums up the life of a busy Crimson and Gray staff member. Distributed twice each month, the newspaper is published by able staff members who do their work before school each morning. These students must report to school early each day and receive no school credit for their labor. During the year, the staff receives much valuable training from their sponsor, Mrs. Marie Butner, which enables them to contribute an equal share of the work that must be done. It is the aim of all staff members to make each issue of the Crimson and Gray more enlightening and enjoyable for the students.

Nevamo Staff Reviews School Year

Probably no single event is more important to the student body than the publication of the Nevamo. Each year the staff works diligently to produce a yearbook which records all the happenings of that particular year. Basing the theme of the 1963 Nevamo on the ideals of the National Honor Society proved to be a new approach to school life. The qualities of leadership, service, character, and scholarship are evident in Nevada High School. This year's Nevamo staff tied these qualities to life at our high school, however, and brought them more closely to your attention. Nevamo staff members are busy people throughout the year. However, though selling advertising, planning layouts, and meeting deadlines are all part of our work, the staff makes room for enjoyment, too. First hour is devoted to work on the vearbook, but much time is spent working on it after school. Because of this time, staff members for the 1963 Nevamo have one wish and hope—that this publication meets the expectations of the student body.

Mr. Bill Hires, Spansor; Gary Headley, President; George Clark, Vice-President; Eddie Barker, Secretary; David Ewing, Reporter; Mack Legleiter, Treasurer; Bill Yordy, Sentinel; and Butch Cummings, Parliamentarian, meet to discuss the group's plans to attend the American Royal in Kansas City

Agriculturists Gain Skills

Future Farmers of America, under the leadership of Mr. Bill Hires, has always been a busy organization at Nevada High School. This year the Future Farmers of America have participated in the Youth Fair, the State Fair, the Future Farmers of America Camp, the National Future Farmers of America Convention, and the American Royal. During the summer months the chapter held swimming parties, hay rides, and an overnight camping trip. Boys involved in this club's work gain valuable practical experience in form management.

Preparing For A Better Tomorrow

UMM GOOD . will be the cake baked by the Future Homemakers of America officers Wyethia Meyers, Reporter; Donna Johnson, Sectofary; Harva Brenner, Vice-President; Rhada Chubick, President; and Norma Falor, Treasurer.

A busy organization at Nevada High School is the Future Homemakers of America. This group is sponsored by Mrs. Marilyn Greer. The main goal of Future Homemakers is to have better personal, home, and community living. Skills learned in class can be applied now and in the future. Girls enrolled in Vocational Home Economics are eligible for membership.

Making costumes for all the school plays and special events, such as Anti-Van, is one of their responsibilities. The group holds regular meetings each month. The Nevada chapter is a member of the state organization of Future Homemakers of America and participates in many district and state meetings and competition. Among the activities planned for the year by this group are a skating party, a fashion show, and a mother-daughter banquet.

"E" FOR EFFORT..., should be given to the officers of Future Teachers of America JoAnn Brown, Vice-President; Jonet Gallagher, Reporter; Jackie Wales, Parliamentarian; Connie Johnson, Secretary; Pat Place, Historian; Judy Gordon, Treasurer; Lity Winters, President; as they prepare to promote Recruitment Week

This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Future Teachers of America. Energetic leadership of the Nevada chapter has promoted Future Teachers of America in our school. Recruitment Week with posters, talks over the inter-com, recommendations of students for membership by teachers, and a mixer for new members represent the vigor of this group. An In-Service Program, new this year, consists of having departmental teachers talk to the members. Also planned by the club was a dinner-dance for members and attendance at the district and state conventions.

DeBarr Club Encourages Artistic Abilities

Since its foundation in 1957-1958 the DeBarr Club has been an active organization. Membership is determined by grade average, and students work hard to obtain an art letter. Under the leadership of Mrs. Myrle Fraser, art clubbers experience many creative activities throughout the year. A few of these activities include a trip to the Nelson Art Gallery in Kansas City, exhibits in the hall showcases at the high school, and the annual art show in the library. This year, as in previous years, the club strives to encourage an interest in all art.

Math And Science

One of the newer clubs at Nevada High School is the Science Club. Just beginning its third year it stimulates an interest in students with advanced scientific knowledge. A number of the projects which are undertaken by this organization are taking field trips, presenting science films which are shown for the benefit of the student body, and also other various individual assignments. The club under the direction of Mr. Elwayne Fry, offers stimulating challenges to students with an advanced scientific aptitude.

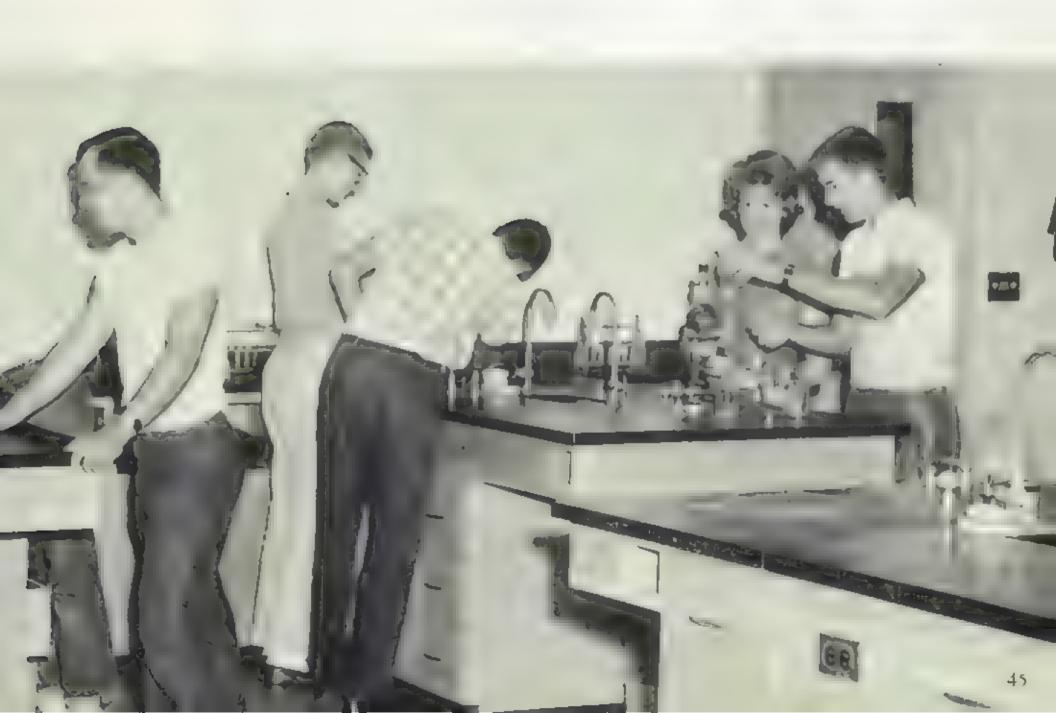

Offered only to students with superior grades in mathematics is the Math Club. The club, under the supervision of Mr. Albert Quick, strives to expose the better math students to more challenging problems in this field and to better prepare them for the college work ahead. To join this club a student must have taken at least three years of math or be at this time enrolled in a third year math course. A student must also have an "S" average in math to join the club.

Clubs For Future Demands

In its second year in existence the Radio Club will boast six new members along with five old members who have received their operator's license. Meetings are held on each Thursday afternoon. In the coming year the club will be working on the repairing of a radio and the theory of how and why radio parts work. The purpose of the club is to enable individuals to obtain a license for operating a ham radio. All the members plan to attend an annual operator's day which will be held in Kansas City this year.

Under the direction of Mr. Chris Schwanz, the photography club will begin its second year at Nevada High School. The aims of the club are to teach picture taking, processing of films, and printing of pictures so that those interested may develop both an interesting and useful hobby. Meetings are held each Monday night. Exchanging ideas and attending exhibits on photography help club members develop their imagination and ability in the art. A field trip to Haley's Bluffs will highlight the club's activities this year.

Commercial And Auto Safety Clubs

Wheels In Motion

To encourage interest in business education, and to create more understanding and ability for choosing future occupations are the aims of the Commercial Club. This club, sponsored by Mrs. Nelle Tolle, is open for those students who are enrolled in the secretarial practice course. Through the year, the club goes on various field trips, and they enjoy listening to reports on new office procedures and equipment. Calculators, typewriters, and telephone tactics play an important role in the life of a Commercial Club member, Although the club is mainly composed of girls, several boys have taken an active interest through the many years of its existence.

Spirit Specialists

When the word spirit is mentioned, the Tigerette organization comes to mind. Throughout the year this group of girls supports the Nevada High School football and basketball teams. At both these events, the concession stand is operated in part by the Tigerettes. Besides boosting spirit, the Tigerettes have charge of the decorations at various dances, such as Silver Tiger, Homecoming, and Anti-Van. Membership in this organization is open to girls in Senior High School. At the end of each school year, awards are given to those members who have supported the teams and have worked on various committees.

Organized sixteen years ago, the Junior High Pep organization known as the Sweater Club is still functioning as one of the most active groups at Nevada High School. Under the supervision of their sponsor, Mrs. Teel, the members of this club perform worth-while services for the community. The club attends all athletic events, and displays its hearty encouragement, support, and enthusiasm for the players. One of the main services performed by the Sweater Club for the school is decorating part of the gym for the Anti-Van Party. Members of this organization who have been outstandingly active during their two years of membership are awarded an "N" letter at the close of their second year in Sweater Club.

8ELL TIME . . . finds Harold Chrisenberry slightly behind time in securing his equipment from his music locker.

Nevada High School's personnel point with pride to our marching and concert band. This is one of the largest of our organizations as well as one of the most successful. Mr. Robert Little is the director of this group. Under his leadership, this department of our school has grown in quality as well as quantity. The marching band presented half-time entertainment at home football games, took part in pep rallies, and participated in many local parades, as well as an El Dorado Springs' parade.

Among the many activities of the concert band, perhaps one of the most gratifying was being asked to play a concert for the district music teachers' meeting in Springfield. This group also gave evening concerts and presented the annual Christmas concert for the state hospital patients.

Socially, this group enjoyed their Sweetheart Dance. Another annual outing for this group is a trip which all members make to Bagnall Dam for a day of relaxation after the close of school.

Seventh Grade Band Develops Skills

Seventh Grade Band has as its purpose the developing of new skills and musical abilities. These Junior High Students devote a great deal of time to fundamentals. Mr. Robert Little is their instructor and he strives to promote not only abilities, but also an appreciation of music. These students presented a successful evening concert, as well as taking part in the annual White Christmas assembly for Junior High School.

Eighth Grade Band Demonstrates Progress

A WORD OF WARNING . . . is given by Jeannie Marlow to new band students. Marja Perkins and Richard Carpenter as what to expect in the band room.

Eighth Grade Band members, after a year's experience, find they have the ability to perform more effectively on stage. As a result of this, the band presented two enjoyable evening concerts. This group also took part in assemblies for the Junior High Students. "Practice Makes Perfect" has become this group's motto as they anticipate next year and becoming members of the Senior High Band.

Out of the entire chorus students are picked to participate in the small voice ensembles. These students spend much time practicing good singing methods, voice control, and rehearsing for music concerts and the music festivals in the spring. By having this extra training, the students participating in the ensembles are helpful in building the chorus.

Being in the ensembles is an advantage to those who try out for the District and State Chorus. These students bring back and put into effect the new ideas and methods they have learned from guest instructors.

Builders Of Chords

MINDING THE MUSIC . . . are two of the chorus librarions Sylvia Kelso and Benji Campbell as they try to select the proper sheet music for the day's work and at the same time admire a trophy recently wan by the group

During her second year as an instructor at Nevada High School, Mrs. Bernice Ball has had a well-functioning Senior High Chorus. The chorus, along with the many small ensembles, furnishes music for school assemblies and the Anti-Van Party. The choral students work diligently toward their annual Christmas and spring concerts and spend much time preparing for the music festival which is held each spring. Several times each year the small ensembles perform at civic clubs in Nevada.

As with most other clubs, the chorus requires outof-school time from its members. Students are required to come before school in the mornings and often at night for extra rehearsals. This extracurricular work does not go without reward. The chorus takes various trips throughout the year to participate in contests and attend concerts of wellknown bands, as well as a special pleasure trip at the end of school. However, the most worth-while reward for this group is the knowledge of a performance well done.

Senior High Chorus Members Become Melodious Musicians

Inspiration For Young Musicians

Nevada High School has a growing population and that is surely demonstrated by the Junior High Chorus. Having twice as many voices to work with this year, Mrs. Bernice Ball, director of this group, produced a fine chorus. The main activity of this group is to study the basic fundamentals of music. Two main objectives are then reached through this study, for this type of work not only provides a fine chorus, but is necessary for music appreciation.

This group participated in many assemblies for the Junior High Students. During the Christmas season, the Junior High Chorus presented an evening concert for their parents and classmates.

Thirty different occupations are represented in this year's Co-operative Occupational Education classes. These special classes are under the direction of Mr. Raymond Bennett. Now in their fifteenth year, they provide vocational training in a variety of fields. This type of training is then exposed to the knowledge of experience in actual application which would be impossible to do in any other class.

Heading the social calendar this year for members of this group is the annual Employer-Employee Banquet in the spring. This group also has a breakfast at the beginning of the school year to start their organization.

Responsible for the many activities in connection with the plays produced at Nevada High School is the National Thespian Society Troop 1349. Established in 1954, the group works in cooperation with the speech department. Several of their jobs, when a production is scheduled, include finding and borrowing costumes for cast members, aiding in the building and painting of scenery, the appointing of ushers, and being responsible for publicity. They must also help in the operating of the lights and applying the make-up, which are the final touches of any good play.

MUCH CONFUSION . . . is displayed by the Thespian officers as they decide the plays to be presented for the year. Shown are Warren Moseley, President; Mr. Gordon Rogers, Sponsor; Loretta Lyan, Secretary; Jonet Gallagher, Treasurer; Susia McGehee, Clerk; and Jery Nunn, Vice-President

Students Assume City Jobs

1963 marks the observance of the eighth annual Mayor-For-A-Day project. The Senior High Student Council has successfully sponsored this project each of the eight years. Mayor-For-A-Day gives Nevada High School students the opportunity to learn the business of co-ordinating a city and its government. Each student is assigned a city official with which he will work during the course of the day. All participants are honored at a luncheon presented by the Lions Club. In the evening they participate in a city council meeting during which they pass bills and ordinances. Students learn to appreciate the work of the city officials and gain a deeper interest in the machinery of our city.

Honor Society Encourages Learning

Rated by the teachers on the basis of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service, the members of the National Honor Society represent the outstanding five per cent of the Junior Class and fifteen per cent of the Senior Class, Outstanding students from the Sophomore Class are selected as probationary members. The members of this organization take pride in maintaining high grade averages and have a sincere interest in the well-being of their school. Organized in the spring of 1925, the National Honor Society is in its thirty-eighth year of existence on our campus.

During their Sophomore year both were elected to attend the Sophomore Pilgrimage

Judy is an active member of Student Council and many other organizations. A good deal of her time is devoted to being the editor of the Nevamo. She plans to attend Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg and major in education

Jery is not only the top graduate, but also a member and captain of the football team, He is also an active member of the Student Council and spends many hours working in the capacity of editor of the Crimson and Gray. Jery plans to attend Drury College located in Springfield and major in pre-law

Nevada has been well represented at various conventions and workshops throughout the year. The Missouri Association of Student Councils Convention at St. Louis was attended by three Senior High delegates and three Junior High delegates. Edwin Fletchall, Student Body President, attended the national convention of Student Councils at San Gabriel, California this past summer. Lynn Whitworth, Vice-President of the Student Body, attended the workshop at Camp Cheley, Colorado.

GO WEST, YOUNG MEN . . . was the motto of these two representatives of Nevada High School. Attending conventions and workshops in California and Colorado are Lynn Whetworth and Edwin Fletchall.

Acknowledgment To Outstanding Students

CLASS LEADERS . . . Seniors Edwin Fletchall and Judy Tough are the recipients of the highest award available to a student at Nevada High School. They have been named as the autstanding leaders of the class of 1963. This award is based on faculty selection. Traditionally, the award has not been announced until the distribution of the yearbook, and these awards become part of Sign Night for the 1963 Nevamo.

SOPHOMORE PILGRIM . . . Martha Dailey is shown after being selected as the student to represent our school on this annual pilgrimage. Martha's trip consists of traveling to Jefferson City were she will visit the General Assembly while in session, take a tour of the Capital, and visit various other state buildings.

AWARD WINNERS . . . Judy Tough and Mary Bennett discuss their test necessary for these awards. Judy is the winner of the D.A.R. American History Award and as such took part in a state contest. Mary is the student from our school to receive the Betty Crocker Homemaker Award.

Honors Reward Students' Efforts

"A DILLAR, A DOLLAR" . . . no ten o'clock scholars are these two delegates to Girls' State, Suzanne Armitage and Judy Tough, as they hurry to get to class on time.

ON THE GO... are Jery Nunn, Lynn Whitworth, Doug Breen, and Warren Moseley, Boys' State delegates, who learned many interesting things during the week spent at Boys' State.

"... Expedients are for an hour, but principles are for the ages. Begin to build your personality on the solid rock of Character, and evil will not uproof its foundation."

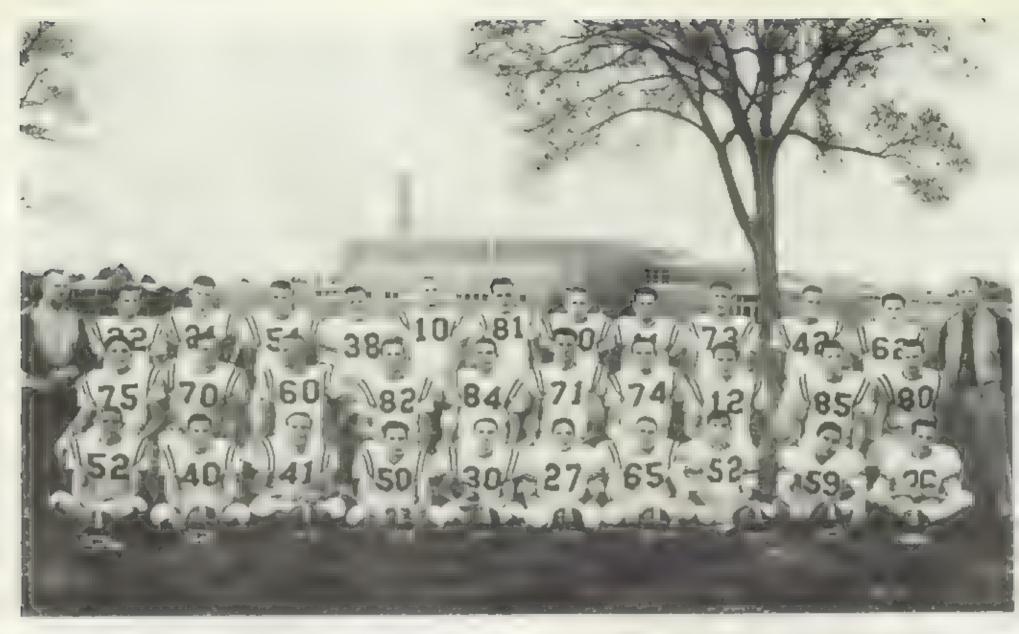

Character, often considered the most important of one's total attributes, is truly a lasting quality. Once developed, character becomes a chief factor in determining one's course of action. Having strong character results in the courage to stand up for one's beliefs and what is right, even in the face of apposition. For the popular ideas of the day eventually fade, while one's own strong convictions remain timeless. A strong character is also necessary to insure advancement toward one's goals in life.

Ideas and activities developed in the teen years constitute the major part of one's character in later life. For this reason, character is emphasized at Nevada High School in several ways. One of the important ways is participation in sports. This year a large number of boys went out for football, basketball, and track. By taking part in such activities, these boys have been developing their character by learning and abiding by the codes of fair play. Also important is the personal satisfaction gained by doing something well.

Tigers Fall Short Of Expectations

NEVADA SCORES . . . against a hard fighting Neosha team. This continued to be a bitterly contested game, and the score at the finish was a 6-6 tie.

Finding Big Nine competition stiffer than expected, the Tigers ran into difficulty in capturing a conference victory. Throughout the season the Tigers were plagued by injuries, and this added to their trouble. The season's record for the Tigers disclosed that they had won one non-conference game and had tied a conference game. Hopes for a good season in 1963 are high, for the Tigers will have twenty-two returning lettermen in their ranks.

The conference made a fine showing in the 1962 season. Aurora, the conference champion, was rated sixth in the state, and two conference players received state recognition.

With the beginning of the 1963 track season, the Big Nine Conference will be enlarged to the Big Ten by the addition of Carl Junction.

Tigers Tie For Second In Conference

Season's Record

A TEAM

After jumping off to a good start by placing second in the Carthage Tournament, the Tigers continued their winning ways and finished the season in a tie for second place with the Monett Cubs. Compiling a total of 513 points in conference play to their opponents 423 points, the Tigers completed the season with a 6-2 conference record. Paced by Bill Lasey and Doug Breen, the top conference scorers, Nevada averaged 64 points a game. Nevada's successful season was partly due to the heighth of the Tiger's back line, which averaged 6'4". Adding to our team's accomplishments is the fact that two members were chosen to the All-Conference Team, Bill Lasey and Doug Breen were so honored. Also, Bill Lasey received honorable mention on Missouri's All-State Basketball Team.

Tigers Strive For Good Season

LAST BURST OF SPEED... is given by Bob Nicodemus as he sprints the last yards to the finish line. Bob, a promising young track man, added much to the squad this year.

Tracksters In Training

MARK IT... is the cry as Doug Breen shows his ability in making a good jump. In broad jump competition, being able to spring is of the greatest importance in winning.

SMOOTH SAILING . . . is exhibited by Ronnie Jones as he swings up and over the bar. Learning to pole vault requires hours of pracice to gain precision timing and co-ordination.

EFFORT AND ENDURANCE... are necessities for staying in a race such as this one. Each boy pushes to his capacity as he tries to reach the finish line first.

"... Education is both a personal interest and a national asset. For education enlarges life — not only for each of us as a person, but for all of us as a nation."

With the world situation as it is now, it seems as though the faculty must make even more of an effort in presenting their subjects. Particularly in the field of science, a teacher is placed under an additional pressure, It is his responsibility to make the subject interesting enough so that a greater number of students will take an active interest in a field which is becoming more and more important in the affairs of today's world. Math is also an important subject in a world which is full of complex machines, and students must realize this before it is too late. Faculty members must take an active interest in their students and quide them for their future careers. These are the things that all of the teachers at Nevada High School strive for. They are aided in their task by our superintendent and principal who give them sound advice as well as furnishing them with the newest in educational equipment. Nevada High School also has the facilities of a well-stocked library in which both teachers and students may make the use of the many reference books on hand.

Education and its development throughout the world is an interesting study. From the times of the Greek's civilization to present day, the duty of a teacher to the students has been a heavy one. One must be dedicated to improving the world and must believe in young people as the answer in order to be a good instructor. Nevada High School is fortunate in having many teachers, a principal, and a superintendent who have this belief and dedication.

Administration

Able Administrators Are Pride

Education, the fundamental principle of freedom, is capably handled by the members of the Nevada Board of Education. These men, leaders in the community, socrifice their time and energy so that students of Nevada might have the best opportunity to receive the education that is so important to the preservation of our nation. Education is a business which our school board has managed well, providing both students and faculty with an excellent apportunity to learn and to teach. Members of the Board are Mr. George Lagan, Secretary; Mr. Donald Russell, President; Mr. Lester Ogle, Vice-President; Mr Morris Nunn, Mr. O. M. Flory, and Dr. Roy Pearse. Not pictured, Mrs. Roth Weltmer, Treasurer.

Under the qualified administration of Mr. C. H. Jones, Jr., the past year at Nevada High School has been a prosperous one. Mr. Jones is supervisor of the Nevada R.5 School District which includes four elementary schools and one Junior-Senior High School. Being superintendent for the past fifteen years, Mr. Jones has built a reputation for ability optimism, and humar. Although he has the responsibility for directing one hundred forty employees, controlling seventeen school buses, and the schooling of two thousand sixty-one students, his good humar never fails. Through Mr. Jones's efforts Nevada High School has expanded not only in size, but also in duties performed and standards reached.

Of School

Without competent assistants, no administrator can be completely free to perform his duties. Perhaps this explains, in part, the fact that Mr. Kerthly and Mr. Jones are highly regarded administrators. They are backed and helped by three competent assistants.

Miss Kleetis Wirth and Mrs. Ruth Weltmer have the responsibility of keeping the superintendent's office running smoothly. This entails handling all school accounts, all orders and payments, and many extra duties.

Mrs. Virginia Withelmson not only is the secretary to the principal, but also serves as school registrar. Typing permanent recard cards, checking absences, and keeping track of fee money and grade cards are just a few of the jobs performed by this office staff.

Principal W. Garland Keithly does much toward the planning and organization that goes into making Nevada High School the AAA school it is. Because of his efforts, the school is operated smoothly and efficiently. A specialist in the field of education, Mr. Keithly also exemplifies the true spirit of an educator in his willingness to serve others untiringly. Mr. Keithly has helped raise the educational standards in our school.

Ande from his regular duties as principal, Mr. Keithly has undertaken the important job of counseling. Due to his excellent training and ability to adapt to different situations, he has excelled in the operation of Nevada Junior-Senior High School.

DRIBBLE, AIM, SHOOT . . . repeats Kay Post to herself as she takes a few practice shots to improve her aim before class begins.

" . . . The three foundations of learning are seeing much, suffering much, and studying much."

To be a truly learned person, one has to be alert and aware of that which is happening around him. He has to keep in step with the world, in his school, his community, and his nation. An olert student can apply the problems of the past to the solutions of problems of the future. He is continually searching for more knowledge and lets nothing stand in his way of research. Being interested in all phases of learning, the good scholar is well versed in all topics of the present day. Good scholarship in school is his goal and to achieve this goal much time must be applied to studies and extra-curricular activities placed second in importance. Although he is always working toward this goal, the student does not forget that learning also includes associating with others and fearning how to get along with them. Therefore, he does not deny himself participation in some activities, but he does not get so involved that it detracts from his learning. The reward of having good study habits is grades of which the student can be proud. Benefitted by these study habits, the student should be able to rank at the top of his class in his later years at college. As he leaves college and takes his place in the world, the knowledge that he has gained through his years of studying will be applicable to living with others in an adult world.

"The prosperity of a community is built on the free co-operation of its people joining their resources and their labor for the welfare and happiness of all."

Progress and prosperity are measured in terms of earnest co-operation and enthusiasm, a sincere desire to make conditions the best possible, and the wise and far-sighted use of resources and labor. Using these elements as determining factors, our city is progressing and prospering. Evidence of this fact is shown by the erection of three modern buildings, including a new post office, on the land site once occupied by the high school building. Within six years from the time the old school was destroyed by fire, these three buildings have risen. A new high school, complete with best modern facilities and equipment, is now the pride of our city. This growth exemplifies a spirit of vitality in the people of Nevada. These buildings also indicate the spirit of dedication and concern for the welfare of the city by its citizens. With such attributes as these, the city will undoubtedly continue to expand. The people, well aware that the peak of achievement can never be reached without the proper attitude, are certain to remain true to their progressive ideals.

The Nevamo staff of 1963 would like to express their utmost thanks and gratitude to these merchants who have helped to make the publication of our yearbook a success. Although the previous custom has been to sell advertising in the early fall, this year's staff began to solicit ads in the summer and were delighted with the warm welcome which they received from these upstanding businessmen. Once again, we say thank you to these men for their thoughtfulness and consideration. They are a true example of the leaders of our community.
